

15th Anniversary: Our Greatest Hits & Misses

WIRED

Attention
Environmentalists:
Keep your SUV.
Forget organics.
Go nuclear.
Screw the spotted owl.

If you're serious about global warming,
only one thing matters:

Cutting carbon. That means facing some inconvenient truths.

Plus:

What We'll Miss About
Bill Gates

Spies and Sabotage at Ferrari

Farewell, Battlestar Galactica

Inconvenient Truths 148

In the age of climate change, what matters most is cutting carbon dioxide and other greenhouse gases.

So get ready to rethink what it means to be green.

PLUS: It's not just the carbon, stupid—a leading environmentalist tells us why we're wrong.

15 Years of Wired 166

How the ideas and events of 1993 paved the way for the world we live in today.

BY ADAM ROGERS

WIRED's founding editor recalls the early years of the Digital Revolution—and assesses what the magazine got right (and wrong).

BY LOUIS ROSSETTO

When you spotlight shiny gadgets for 180 months straight, some of your picks are bound to be clunkers.

A look back at the lamest Fetish items ever.

COMPILED BY NATE RALPH

Q&A: Ron Moore 180

The man who re-created Battlestar Galactica talks about father figures, dark backstories, football, and his next two projects.

BY ADAM ROGERS

Grand Theft Auto

Two powerful Formula One teams. One disgruntled mechanic. 800 pages of top-secret Ferrari designs. Oh, and an S&M orgy. Inside the scandal that rocked the racing world.

BY MARK SEAL

Record sales down
25 percent since '99

Live from Xerox
PARC, Severe Tire
Damage is first band
to perform on Internet

Digital formats close to surpassing physical media